

Maple Bear
May 14th, 2026

X

Properties of solids, liquids and gases

Solids, liquids, and gases are states of matter, and each one has its own properties. Solids have a definite shape and volume because their particles are very close together. Liquids have a definite volume but do not have a fixed shape, taking the shape of the container they are in. Gases do not have a definite shape or volume, spreading easily through the environment because their particles are far apart and move freely.

